

JOURNAL OF COMPUTING AND SOFTWARE ENGINEERING (JCSE)

CALL FOR PAPERS

(Volume 1 Issue 2)

Preamble:

Journal of Computing and Software Engineering (JCSE) hereby announces the maiden edition of the Call for Papers (CFP) for publication in the first issue of its first volume (Vol.1 Issue 2). This volume is strictly aimed to publish various aspects of recent researches, findings, theories and outputs in computing and software engineering topics. This is an outlet for students, researchers and practitioners to connect with the world of research and disseminate their discoveries. This issue covers original research papers in computer science, software engineering, algorithms, automata theory, formal languages, parallel and distributed computing, databases, computer modeling of complex systems, security and privacy, computational intelligence, object-oriented technology and related subjects. Submitted papers shall undergo thorough but unbiased peer-reviewed procedures.

Papers submitted for evaluation and publication should be between 2500 and 7000 words (few plus or minus allowed), well researched, and written in sound English in the IEEE (Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers) referencing Style format of documentation with an abstract of not more than 300 words, and keywords of not more than five (5). Papers should be prepared and submitted in Microsoft® Word (.doc; .docx) via our online submission portal or as e-mail attachment to: editor @jcsejournals.org. Submitted manuscript must not be under review with any other Journal till our editorial decision reached. Author of accepted papers shall be required to pay an Article Processing Charge (APC) of $50 per publication.
